

Take Advantage of School-Based Health Centers

As a CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield Community Health Plan District of Columbia (CareFirst CHPDC) enrollee, your family's health is our first priority. If you have children in high school, we want you to know about school-based health centers that may be available to them.

A school-based health center (SBHC) is a care center located in or near a DC public school. It provides primary health services to enrolled students.

Each SBHC is staffed by health professionals. They are focused on the issues that can affect a student's learning. These include asthma, lead exposure, obesity, substance abuse, vision, hearing, oral health, mental health, sexual health and well-child care. Parents must enroll students in the SBHC for them to use these health services.

Currently, there are seven SBHCs in operation. They are located at Anacostia High School, Ballou High School, Cardozo Education Campus, Dunbar High School, Eastern High School, Roosevelt High School and Woodson High School.

Normal business hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. During school breaks, hours may differ. Contact the specific SBHC for more information. Students who need medical attention after hours should call the SBHC provider for emergency instructions.
